Hardy Perennial Plants and Shrubs

During the past few years the demand for perennials has increased so rapidly that the average grower has not been able to keep up with the demand. The plants are used by the hundreds in every garden, and some varieties find their greatest usefulness in floral establishments where they are worked into formal designs.

In many cases the average hardy garden or border suffers from an unwise selection of perennials. Digitalis, the Michaelmas Daisies, or the Hardy Chrysanthemums, deserve a prominent place, but they should not be used to the exclusion of others equally good.

The plants which are offered in this list are field-grown and are wintered outdoors in the extremely cold winter climate which we have along the shores of Lake Erie.

Not less than six plants of one variety at the dozen price. If one of each of six different varieties is ordered, the single price will be charged.

Prices per each, per three and per dozen by mail postpaid. Per hundred, by express collect. We are able to send larger plants by express and if requested will do so in whatever quantity.

PEONIES

Peonies, especially the modern introductions, are probably the most valuable of all perennial plants. Careful selection of flowers gives a wonderful range of color, and extended blooming period. Once planted they require little care, but they will more than repay good cultivation in plentiful bloom, and of better quality.

PLANTING. Peonies may be planted in fall or spring, but fall is much to be preferred. Avoid planting deeper than 3 inches of soil over the crown or eyes. After planting, mulch well with stable manure to avoid winter "heaving". Remove this and spread about the plants when freezing is over. Never cut flowers so that all the leaves are taken from the plant, and do not cut the stems below the first pair of leaves. This is a prolific cause of short lived plants.

RATINGS AND ORIGIN. The figures given at left of each variety are the ratings given them by the American Peony Society. In brackets is the name of the originator, and date of introduction. Back of this list is a planting of over twenty thousand plants, and we are able to give you prime stock.

PRICES. The first price is for staple planting stock, of two to five eyes, the second is for two year, 4 eyes and up, and the third is for clumps of 8 eyes and up. Six plants for five times the price of one. Write for quotations in lots of 25 to 100 of a sort. Two to five eye plants, the first priced, are by mail prepaid. The last two sizes are too heavy to mail and are by express, charges collect.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation $f(x) = \int_0^x f(t) dt$. It is shown that $f(x)$ is a continuous function and that it satisfies the differential equation $f'(x) = f(x)$. The solution of this equation is $f(x) = Ce^{x^2/2}$, where C is a constant. The value of C is determined by the initial condition $f(0) = 1$, which gives $C = 1$. Therefore, the function $f(x)$ is $f(x) = e^{x^2/2}$.

2. In the second part of the paper, we consider the function $g(x)$ defined by the equation $g(x) = \int_0^x g(t) dt$. It is shown that $g(x)$ is a continuous function and that it satisfies the differential equation $g'(x) = g(x)$. The solution of this equation is $g(x) = Ce^{x^2/2}$, where C is a constant. The value of C is determined by the initial condition $g(0) = 1$, which gives $C = 1$. Therefore, the function $g(x)$ is $g(x) = e^{x^2/2}$.

3. In the third part of the paper, we consider the function $h(x)$ defined by the equation $h(x) = \int_0^x h(t) dt$. It is shown that $h(x)$ is a continuous function and that it satisfies the differential equation $h'(x) = h(x)$. The solution of this equation is $h(x) = Ce^{x^2/2}$, where C is a constant. The value of C is determined by the initial condition $h(0) = 1$, which gives $C = 1$. Therefore, the function $h(x)$ is $h(x) = e^{x^2/2}$.

Concerning Perennial Seeds and a Few Others

Poor germination of seeds makes a fine chance to lay something up against the long suffering seedsman. I think, from years of experience with him, that the average seedsman is doing his level best to get you something that will produce results, and to give you a dollar for the dollar you spend with him. Barring a few scarce perennial seeds, I doubt if there are any seeds held over for one year. Failure may result from so many causes that even our expert growers are not likely to lay failure to old seeds on a first trial. Many items either must be fall planted, or are better planted at that time. These are, and have been for many years, a source of complaint, and of dark suspicion that the seedsman is sending out antiques. Among these are Adonis, Aetheoppapus, Anthericum, Apocynum, Asperula, Cassia, Colchicum, Convallaria, Cirsium, Dicentra, Dictamnus, Ferula, Echinops, Gunnera, Hedysarium, Helleborus, Heracleum, Hypericum, Liatris, Morina, Oenothera (Missouriensis), Par-danthus, Peony, Phlox, Sidalcea, Spirea, Trollius, about all vine and shrub seeds. Above items, if planted in frames in fall, or if planted outside, and given some light covering to prevent heaving, will at once remove all suspicion as to any advanced age.

Then there's the really fine seeds, many of which should not be covered at all. Heuchera, Lobelia, Leontopodium, Gnaphalium, Erinus, Androsace and Giant Petunia, and other fine annuals, either should be covered very lightly, or else not covered at all.

Each spring we plant about two acres of perennial seeds, as time and weather will allow, from about April first to May fifteenth. Such large items as Hollyhock, Mallow, Centaurea, Gaillardia, Coreopsis, and like, invariably, barring accidents, give us a good stand, but the finer and more uncertain Campanula, Digitalis, Aquilegia (note that I offer these in two sections), Agrostemma, Double and finer Hybrid Delphiniums (Belladonna and Bellamosa are sure fire outside) Lychnis, and other medium fine seeds often fail, or after germinating meet up with weather conditions that put them out of the running. We expect little from these, however, and make all preparations to handle them in frames. When we do get a stand of them outside it saves much labor and time, so we always try them outside first.

When the grower is not able to be constantly with the seedlings, the ideal summer cover for the frames is common cotton cloth, next best is lath frames, spacing lath about $\frac{1}{2}$ " apart. We also use glass, covered well with a paint made from white lead thinned with gasoline. This shades during hot weather and is mostly washed off by fall.

Prepare all seed beds, either frames or outside, by thorough plowing or spading, and raking, then for fine seeds level the soil and firm it lightly, scatter the seeds thinly, first seeing that the planting space is level, so that the seeds will not wash to one corner of the little block when watering. Then screen soil over the seeds to the depth of the size of the seeds, or so that they are just covered from sight. Water lightly with a fine sprinkler and await results. Do not allow the soil to bake.

DON'T—Plant seeds deeper than the size of the seeds.

Plant fine seeds in full sun in hot weather (Coarse seeds will do for you about as would lettuce, carrot, beet, or like items).

Plant seedlings out in the fall. Let them stand in seed rows or frame till spring, with light mulch.

Water too much, or with too heavy force. This breaks the tender little plants, and causes damping.

Use too much fertilizer on the little seedlings. Let them get large enough to "eat."

You will never get germination from poor seeds, but you will often get poor germination from perfectly good seeds, at least we do. The trouble lies almost invariably with something done wrong, too heavy, too light, covering; too much, too little water; wrong soil; too much, too little air. Use your plant or seed sense, study your conditions and you will be richly rewarded for a little time and less money spent in the most fascinating branch of gardening.

I will gladly help solve your planting problems, but please remember that you are one of many, and that I'm busy. Don't write until you know you cannot get results yourself.

Respectfully,

R. E. Huntington.
